

SOCIETY and PERSONAL ACTIVITIES of WOMEN

Social Calendar

Monday.

Unusual entertainment will feature the day at the Country club. The afternoon will be devoted to golfing and a dinner dance will occupy the early evening. Fireworks will appeal to the children during the evening.

A community celebration will be sponsored by the members of the Sunning Prairie Home Economics club at Gleaner hall.

Tuesday.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Sunning Prairie Presbyterian church will meet at the church parlors.

Miss Zelma Phillips, 212 E. Broadway, will entertain the Philanthropic class of the Grace M. E. church in the evening.

The Tuesday Night club will be entertained by Mrs. George Erhardt, N. Johnson st.

The regular meeting of the Live Oak Drill team will be held at the home of Mrs. Louise Moore, 626 Pennsylvania av.

Wednesday.

Mrs. Noble O. Keller will be hostess to the Independent club at her home, 711 Marietta st.

After a temporary cessation of four weeks, meetings of the Willing Workers club will be resumed with Mrs. Frank Kline, 809 Lincoln way East.

A picnic at Pottawatomie park will feature the meeting of the Ladies Aid society of the German M. E. church.

The Portage Economics club will hold an all-day picnic at Indian lake. Mrs. Frank Melander, 103 Birdwell st., will entertain the Jolly Croquet club in the afternoon.

The regular meeting of the Fancy Needleworkers' club will take place at the home of Mrs. E. O. Ellis, 623 N. Walnut st.

Thursday.

A basket picnic at Lake Park, Hudson lake, will be held by members of the Ladies Aid society of the Trinity M. E. church.

The husband of the Woman's Foreign Missionary society of the Grace M. E. church will be entertained in the evening at the church parlors.

A combined meeting of the Ladies Aid and Woman's Foreign Missionary societies of the First Evangelical church will be held at the home of Mrs. William Schuster, 812 Smith st.

Mrs. Milford Price, Olive st., will be hostess to the Ladies Aid society of the Grace Evangelical church.

The Friendship room of the First M. E. church will be used for the meetings of the Woman's Foreign Missionary society at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon. The hostesses will be announced later.

Members of the Allcamera Glee club will have a meeting at Pottawatomie park.

Mrs. Theresa Kupper, Mrs. LaPetocke and Mrs. Martha Dreher will be hostesses at a meeting of the Sewing circle of St. Peter's Evangelical church to be held in the afternoon at the parish school.

The Beehive club will meet with Mrs. Emma Reed, 1051 N. Wilber st.

Miss Louise Taylor, 228 N. St. Peter st., will act as hostess to the La Kota Wajon club in the evening.

The regular meeting of the Victory club will be held at the home of Mrs. Charles Frazier, 1931 Lincoln way W.

Mrs. George Snyder will entertain the Twin City Sewing circle at her home, 109 N. St. Peter st.

A meeting of the Ladies Aid society of the Gloria Dei Swedish Lutheran church will be held in the church parlors.

Members of the Woman's Missionary society of the First Christian church will entertain their husbands with a basket supper at the church.

The Ladies' Sewing circle of the Zion Evangelical church will meet at the parish school.

Friday.

The Wanda Sewing circle will hold a meeting. Mrs. Mollie Thomas, 1127 1-2 S. Fellows st., acting as hostess and Mrs. Sam Spencer assisting hostess.

A picnic will be given by members of the Fellowship auxiliary of the First Baptist church, the place to be announced later.

Announcement of the meeting place of the Frances Willard W. C. T. U. will be made later.

Saturday.

Members of the Volunteer class of the Conference Memorial U. B. church will be entertained with a picnic at the summer home of Mrs. Fred Brower, Barron lake, Mich.

The Standard Bearers of the Trinity Methodist Episcopal church will hold a picnic, the place to be announced later.

Members of the Volunteer class of the Conference Memorial U. B. church will be entertained with a picnic at the summer home of Mrs. Fred Brower, Barron lake, Mich.

The Standard Bearers of the Trinity Methodist Episcopal church will hold a picnic, the place to be announced later.

Members of the Volunteer class of the Conference Memorial U. B. church will be entertained with a picnic at the summer home of Mrs. Fred Brower, Barron lake, Mich.

The Standard Bearers of the Trinity Methodist Episcopal church will hold a picnic, the place to be announced later.

UNCLE WIGGILY

The Story of the Balloons

By HOWARD R. GARIS

(Copyright, 1921.)

By HOWARD R. GARIS.

"What can we do? Oh, what can we do?"

This is the cry Uncle Wiggily heard outside of his hollow stump bungalow one morning.

"Who is that calling, Nuree Jane?" asked the bunny rabbit Uncle Wiggily, giving his pink nose two and a half twinks.

"Some of the animal children," answered the muskrat lady housekeeper.

"And what is the matter with them?" Uncle Wiggily wanted to know. "Here it is a lovely, sunny day and they seem to be crying."

"They want something to do," Nuree Jane said.

"Well, there certainly is enough to do in this world," Uncle Wiggily glibly. "Tell the boys and girls to come in that I may see what is the trouble."

Into the hollow stump bungalow came trooping Sammie and Susie Littletail, the rabbits; Johnny and Billie Bushytail, the squirrels; Jackie and Peetle Bow Wow, the puppy dog chaps, and Lulu, Alice and Jimmie Wibblywobble, the ducks. There were also many others.

"What can we do? Oh, what can we do?" cried all the animal children.

"What do you want to do?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"Have some fun for fourth of July," answered Sammie, trying to twinkle his little pink nose as Uncle Wiggily did his large one. But it wasn't the same.

"Our mothers and fathers don't want us to make any noise," barked Jackie Bow Wow, "and you can't have fun on fourth unless you make a noise."

"Oh, can't you?" asked Mr. Longears with a laugh. "We'll see about that. Making noises is only one kind of fun."

"We want something to do," quacked Jimmie, the duck.

"If we had toy circus balloons, red, white, blue, green, yellow and pink," mewed Kitty Kat, "we could have fun with them."

"Oh, get us some balloons, Uncle Wiggily!" begged the animal children.

"Very well, I will!" promised the bunny uncle. "They will give you something to do, and at the same time make a quiet fourth of July for the animal ladies. Come on, children."

Uncle Wiggily led the children down the woodland path, intending to take them to the three and four, or maybe the five and six cent store, to get some toy balloons. But as he was hopping along on his red, white and blue striped rheumatism crutch,

all of a sudden Johnny Bushytail cried:

"Oh, look, Uncle Wiggily! There's a man and he has a big bunch of balloons!"

Surely enough, passing along the road on the edge of the forest was a balloon peddler. Over his head floated a bunch of red, green, blue and yellow gas bags bobbing about in the wind.

"Now we don't have to go to the store!" quipped Lulu the duck girl. "You can get balloons from him."

"Yes," agreed Uncle Wiggily, "so I can. You stay here and I'll go see if I can make that man understand rabbit talk enough to have him sell me balloons."

The animal children crouched down behind the bushes as Uncle Wiggily hopped forward. But he had not taken more than five steps before Sammie Littletail cried:

"Oh, look! The balloon man is going up!" And surely enough there he was floating up in the air, with his bunch of gas bags. They had suddenly lifted him off his feet!

"Look, Uncle Wiggily! Look!" cried Sammie, very much excited.

"Well, I do declare!" exclaimed Uncle Wiggily. "If that man falls he'll be hurt!"

"But if he doesn't come down we can't have any balloons," bleated Nannie Wagtail, the goat child.

All this while the man was jiggling his feet and trying to get back to earth, but the balloons kept lifting him higher and higher.

"Help! Help! Help!" shouted the balloon peddler. "Help me get down!"

"Oh, if I only had my airship here," sighed Uncle Wiggily. "I could fly after the man and save him."

"I can save him without an airship," barked Peetle Bow Wow.

"How?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"With my bean-blower," answered the little puppy chap. "I can blow sharp stones through my bean shooter at some of the balloons, and burst them. And when I have broken enough the man will come down to earth."

"Carck! Bang! Pip! Pop! Pip!"

"Pipity-pop-pip!" banged the balloons.

want us to make any noise," barked Jackie Bow Wow, "and you can't have fun on fourth unless you make a noise."

"Oh, can't you?" asked Mr. Longears with a laugh. "We'll see about that. Making noises is only one kind of fun."

"We want something to do," quacked Jimmie, the duck.

"If we had toy circus balloons, red, white, blue, green, yellow and pink," mewed Kitty Kat, "we could have fun with them."

"Oh, get us some balloons, Uncle Wiggily!" begged the animal children.

"Very well, I will!" promised the bunny uncle. "They will give you something to do, and at the same time make a quiet fourth of July for the animal ladies. Come on, children."

Uncle Wiggily led the children down the woodland path, intending to take them to the three and four, or maybe the five and six cent store, to get some toy balloons. But as he was hopping along on his red, white and blue striped rheumatism crutch,

all of a sudden Johnny Bushytail cried:

"Oh, look, Uncle Wiggily! There's a man and he has a big bunch of balloons!"

Surely enough, passing along the road on the edge of the forest was a balloon peddler. Over his head floated a bunch of red, green, blue and yellow gas bags bobbing about in the wind.

"Now we don't have to go to the store!" quipped Lulu the duck girl. "You can get balloons from him."

"Yes," agreed Uncle Wiggily, "so I can. You stay here and I'll go see if I can make that man understand rabbit talk enough to have him sell me balloons."

The animal children crouched down behind the bushes as Uncle Wiggily hopped forward. But he had not taken more than five steps before Sammie Littletail cried:

"Oh, look! The balloon man is going up!" And surely enough there he was floating up in the air, with his bunch of gas bags. They had suddenly lifted him off his feet!

"Look, Uncle Wiggily! Look!" cried Sammie, very much excited.

"Well, I do declare!" exclaimed Uncle Wiggily. "If that man falls he'll be hurt!"

"But if he doesn't come down we can't have any balloons," bleated Nannie Wagtail, the goat child.

All this while the man was jiggling his feet and trying to get back to earth, but the balloons kept lifting him higher and higher.

"Help! Help! Help!" shouted the balloon peddler. "Help me get down!"

"Oh, if I only had my airship here," sighed Uncle Wiggily. "I could fly after the man and save him."

"I can save him without an airship," barked Peetle Bow Wow.

"How?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"With my bean-blower," answered the little puppy chap. "I can blow sharp stones through my bean shooter at some of the balloons, and burst them. And when I have broken enough the man will come down to earth."

"Carck! Bang! Pip! Pop! Pip!"

"Pipity-pop-pip!" banged the balloons.

want us to make any noise," barked Jackie Bow Wow, "and you can't have fun on fourth unless you make a noise."

"Oh, can't you?" asked Mr. Longears with a laugh. "We'll see about that. Making noises is only one kind of fun."

"We want something to do," quacked Jimmie, the duck.

"If we had toy circus balloons, red, white, blue, green, yellow and pink," mewed Kitty Kat, "we could have fun with them."

"Oh, get us some balloons, Uncle Wiggily!" begged the animal children.

"Very well, I will!" promised the bunny uncle. "They will give you something to do, and at the same time make a quiet fourth of July for the animal ladies. Come on, children."

Uncle Wiggily led the children down the woodland path, intending to take them to the three and four, or maybe the five and six cent store, to get some toy balloons. But as he was hopping along on his red, white and blue striped rheumatism crutch,

all of a sudden Johnny Bushytail cried:

"Oh, look, Uncle Wiggily! There's a man and he has a big bunch of balloons!"

Surely enough, passing along the road on the edge of the forest was a balloon peddler. Over his head floated a bunch of red, green, blue and yellow gas bags bobbing about in the wind.

"Now we don't have to go to the store!" quipped Lulu the duck girl. "You can get balloons from him."

"Yes," agreed Uncle Wiggily, "so I can. You stay here and I'll go see if I can make that man understand rabbit talk enough to have him sell me balloons."

The animal children crouched down behind the bushes as Uncle Wiggily hopped forward. But he had not taken more than five steps before Sammie Littletail cried:

"Oh, look! The balloon man is going up!" And surely enough there he was floating up in the air, with his bunch of gas bags. They had suddenly lifted him off his feet!

"Look, Uncle Wiggily! Look!" cried Sammie, very much excited.

"Well, I do declare!" exclaimed Uncle Wiggily. "If that man falls he'll be hurt!"

"But if he doesn't come down we can't have any balloons," bleated Nannie Wagtail, the goat child.

All this while the man was jiggling his feet and trying to get back to earth, but the balloons kept lifting him higher and higher.

"Help! Help! Help!" shouted the balloon peddler. "Help me get down!"

"Oh, if I only had my airship here," sighed Uncle Wiggily. "I could fly after the man and save him."

"I can save him without an airship," barked Peetle Bow Wow.

"How?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"With my bean-blower," answered the little puppy chap. "I can blow sharp stones through my bean shooter at some of the balloons, and burst them. And when I have broken enough the man will come down to earth."

"Carck! Bang! Pip! Pop! Pip!"

"Pipity-pop-pip!" banged the balloons.

want us to make any noise," barked Jackie Bow Wow, "and you can't have fun on fourth unless you make a noise."

"Oh, can't you?" asked Mr. Longears with a laugh. "We'll see about that. Making noises is only one kind of fun."

"We want something to do," quacked Jimmie, the duck.

"If we had toy circus balloons, red, white, blue, green, yellow and pink," mewed Kitty Kat, "we could have fun with them."

"Oh, get us some balloons, Uncle Wiggily!" begged the animal children.

"Very well, I will!" promised the bunny uncle. "They will give you something to do, and at the same time make a quiet fourth of July for the animal ladies. Come on, children."

Uncle Wiggily led the children down the woodland path, intending to take them to the three and four, or maybe the five and six cent store, to get some toy balloons. But as he was hopping along on his red, white and blue striped rheumatism crutch,

all of a sudden Johnny Bushytail cried:

"Oh, look, Uncle Wiggily! There's a man and he has a big bunch of balloons!"

Surely enough, passing along the road on the edge of the forest was a balloon peddler. Over his head floated a bunch of red, green, blue and yellow gas bags bobbing about in the wind.

"Now we don't have to go to the store!" quipped Lulu the duck girl. "You can get balloons from him."

"Yes," agreed Uncle Wiggily, "so I can. You stay here and I'll go see if I can make that man understand rabbit talk enough to have him sell me balloons."

The animal children crouched down behind the bushes as Uncle Wiggily hopped forward. But he had not taken more than five steps before Sammie Littletail cried:

"Oh, look! The balloon man is going up!" And surely enough there he was floating up in the air, with his bunch of gas bags. They had suddenly lifted him off his feet!

"Look, Uncle Wiggily! Look!" cried Sammie, very much excited.

"Well, I do declare!" exclaimed Uncle Wiggily. "If that man falls he'll be hurt!"

"But if he doesn't come down we can't have any balloons," bleated Nannie Wagtail, the goat child.

All this while the man was jiggling his feet and trying to get back to earth, but the balloons kept lifting him higher and higher.

"Help! Help! Help!" shouted the balloon peddler. "Help me get down!"

"Oh, if I only had my airship here," sighed Uncle Wiggily. "I could fly after the man and save him."

"I can save him without an airship," barked Peetle Bow Wow.

"How?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"With my bean-blower," answered the little puppy chap. "I can blow sharp stones through my bean shooter at some of the balloons, and burst them. And when I have broken enough the man will come down to earth."

"Carck! Bang! Pip! Pop! Pip!"

"Pipity-pop-pip!" banged the balloons.

want us to make any noise," barked Jackie Bow Wow, "and you can't have fun on fourth unless you make a noise."

"Oh, can't you?" asked Mr. Longears with a laugh. "We'll see about that. Making noises is only one kind of fun."

"We want something to do," quacked Jimmie, the duck.

"If we had toy circus balloons, red, white, blue, green, yellow and pink," mewed Kitty Kat, "we could have fun with them."

"Oh, get us some balloons, Uncle Wiggily!" begged the animal children.

"Very well, I will!" promised the bunny uncle. "They will give you something to do, and at the same time make a quiet fourth of July for the animal ladies. Come on, children."

Uncle Wiggily led the children down the woodland path, intending to take them to the three and four, or maybe the five and six cent store, to get some toy balloons. But as he was hopping along on his red, white and blue striped rheumatism crutch,

all of a sudden Johnny Bushytail cried:

"Oh, look, Uncle Wiggily! There's a man and he has a big bunch of balloons!"

Surely enough, passing along the road on the edge of the forest was a balloon peddler. Over his head floated a bunch of red, green, blue and yellow gas bags bobbing about in the wind.

"Now we don't have to go to the store!" quipped Lulu the duck girl. "You can get balloons from him."

"Yes," agreed Uncle Wiggily, "so I can. You stay here and I'll go see if I can make that man understand rabbit talk enough to have him sell me balloons."

The animal children crouched down behind the bushes as Uncle Wiggily hopped forward. But he had not taken more than five steps before Sammie Littletail cried:

"Oh, look! The balloon man is going up!" And surely enough there he was floating up in the air, with his bunch of gas bags. They had suddenly lifted him off his feet!

"Look, Uncle Wiggily! Look!" cried Sammie, very much excited.

"Well, I do declare!" exclaimed Uncle Wiggily. "If that man falls he'll be hurt!"

"But if he doesn't come down we can't have any balloons," bleated Nannie Wagtail, the goat child.

All this while the man was jiggling his feet and trying to get back to earth, but the balloons kept lifting him higher and higher.

"Help! Help! Help!" shouted the balloon peddler. "Help me get down!"

"Oh, if I only had my airship here," sighed Uncle Wiggily. "I could fly after the man and save him."

"I can save him without an airship," barked Peetle Bow Wow.

"How?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"With my bean-blower," answered the little puppy chap. "I can blow sharp stones through my bean shooter at some of the balloons, and burst them. And when I have broken enough the man will come down to earth."

"Carck! Bang! Pip! Pop! Pip!"

"Pipity-pop-pip!" banged the balloons.

want us to make any noise," barked Jackie Bow Wow, "and you can't have fun on fourth unless you make a noise."

"Oh, can't you?" asked Mr. Longears with a laugh. "We'll see about that. Making noises is only one kind of fun."

"We want something to do," quacked Jimmie, the duck.

"If we had toy circus balloons, red, white, blue, green, yellow and pink," mewed Kitty Kat, "we could have fun with them."

"Oh, get us some balloons, Uncle Wiggily!" begged the animal children.

"Very well, I will!" promised the bunny uncle. "They will give you something to do, and at the same time make a quiet fourth of July for the animal ladies. Come on, children."

Uncle Wiggily led the children down the woodland path, intending to take them to the three and four, or maybe the five and six cent store, to get some toy balloons. But as he was hopping along on his red, white and blue striped rheumatism crutch,

all of a sudden Johnny Bushytail cried:

"Oh, look, Uncle Wiggily! There's a man and he has a big bunch of balloons!"

Surely enough, passing along the road on the edge of the forest was a balloon peddler. Over his head floated a bunch of red, green, blue and yellow gas bags bobbing about in the wind.

"Now we don't have to go to the store!" quipped Lulu the duck girl. "You can get balloons from him."

"Yes," agreed Uncle Wiggily, "so I can. You stay here and I'll go see if I can make that man understand rabbit talk enough to have him sell me balloons."